THE CONSTITUTION OF TUVALU

PREAMBLE

WE, the People of Tuvalu: -

THANKFUL that our islands and oceans, known in ancient name as the Tuvalu islands, were given by God as our home in the Pacific Ocean;

CELEBRATING our distinct culture and tradition influenced mainly by people of Polynesian decent;

RECALLING our history and the arrival of the black birders, traders and explorers;

REAFFIRMING the adoption of the 1986 Constitution and within it, the vision of its Preamble and Guiding Principles;

REJOICING in the coming of Christianity to our home;

AFFIRMING our identity as a Christian nation;

RECALLING that our islands were later named the Ellice Islands under the-protection of Her Most Gracious Majesty Queen Victoria in September 1892 and on 12 January 1916 in unification with the Gilbert Islands became the Gilbert and Ellice Islands Colony;

RECALLING further that on 1 October 1975 Her Most Excellent Majesty Queen Elizabeth II was graciously pleased to establish the Ellice Islands as a separate colony under our ancient name of Tuvalu;

RECOGNISING that the Constitution adopted on independence, which was given the force of law by Order in Council of Her Most Excellent Majesty dated 25 July 1978 and took effect on 1 October 1978, provided for its amendment or replacement by Ordinance of the Parliament established by it;

RECOGNISING further that the Constitution has served the people of Tuvalu well since Independence but must now, more than forty years since its adoption, be reconsidered in the light of our history, world affairs and development, and our present and future needs;

ACKNOWLEDGING God as the Almighty and Everlasting Lord and Giver of all good things, humbly placing ourselves under His good providence, and seeking His blessing upon us and our lives;

REAFFIRMING our desire to constitute ourselves as a free and democratic sovereign nation based on Christian Principles, Tuvaluan values and culture and the Rule of Law;

REAFFIRMING also our allegiance to Her Most Excellent Majesty Queen Elizabeth II, Her Heirs and Successors;

DEEPLY CONCERNED with the imminent existential threat of Climate Change and sea-level rise to the security and survival of Tuvalu, and the urgent need for meaningful work with the rest of the world to protect and save Tuvalu;

AND HAVING CONSIDERED, as individuals, groups, and island communities, in our Falekaupule, and in our Parliament, what should be in our Constitution,

DO HEREBY ESTABLISH AND ENACT the following Constitution of Tuvalu -

IN SO DOING, WE, the people of Tuvalu set out for ourselves and our governmental institutions, the following Principles:

PRINCIPLES OF THE CONSTITUTION

1. The principles set out in the Preamble to the Independence Constitution are re-affirmed and re-adopted.
2. Our right as the people of Tuvalu both present and future, to a full, free and secure life, and to moral, spiritual, personal and material welfare, is affirmed as one given to us by God.
3. While believing that Tuvalu must take its rightful place amongst the community of nations in search of peace and the general welfare, nevertheless the people of Tuvalu recognize and affirm, with gratitude to God, that the stability of Tuvaluan society and the happiness and welfare of the people of Tuvalu, both present and future, depend very largely on the maintenance of Tuvaluan values, culture and tradition, including the vitality and the sense of identity of island communities and attitudes of co-operation, self-help and unity within and amongst those communities.
4. Amongst the values that we the people of Tuvalu seek to maintain are those embodied in our traditional forms of community, the Falekaupule, and the strength and support of the family and family discipline.
5. In government, and in social affairs generally, the guiding principles of Tuvalu are:
 - agreement, courtesy and the search for consensus, in accordance with traditional Tuvaluan procedures, rather than alien ideas of confrontation and divisiveness;
 - the need for mutual respect and co-operation between the different kinds of authorities concerned, including the central Government, the traditional authorities, Falekaupule, and the religious authorities.
6. Therefore, the life and the laws of Tuvalu should be based on respect for Christian principles, Tuvaluan values and culture, the Rule of Law and human dignity.
7. The people of Tuvalu recognize that in a changing world, and with changing needs, the manner and form of the expression of these principles and values may change, but the Constitution must recognize their fundamental importance to the life of Tuvalu and also, where necessary, reinforce them.

THESE PRINCIPLES, under the guidance of God, are solemnly adopted and affirmed as the basis of this Constitution, and as the guiding principles to be observed in its interpretation and application at all levels of government and organized life.

THE STATE AND THE CONSTITUTION

DIVISION I - THE STATE

1 The State

Tuvalu is a sovereign democratic State, governed in accordance with this Constitution and in particular in accordance with the Principles set out in the Preamble.

2 Tuvalu Statehood

Statehood

- (1) The State of Tuvalu within its historical, cultural and legal framework shall remain in perpetuity in the future, notwithstanding the impacts of climate change or other causes resulting in loss to the physical territory of Tuvalu.

The Area of Tuvalu

- (2) The area of Tuvalu consists of all areas bounded by baseline coordinates including maritime zones measured from such baseline coordinates declared in Schedule 6 (Declaration of Tuvalu Geographical Coordinates).
- (3) The baseline coordinates declared by Schedule 6 shall remain unchanged, notwithstanding any regression of the low water mark or changes in geographical features of coasts or islands, due to sea-level rise or other causes, until and unless otherwise prescribed by an Act of Parliament.
- (4) Nothing in this section prevents an Act of Parliament from proclaiming the jurisdiction of Tuvalu, complete or partial, over any area of land or water or airspace above, or prevents a law from having extra-territorial effect in accordance with section 86 (vesting of the law-making power).

Addressing Climate Change in Protection of Statehood

- (5) Tuvalu is committed to:
 - a. Protecting and conserving its land area, territorial waters and airspace as included in Subsection (2) and retaining its Statehood as included in Subsection (1); and
 - b. Responding to climate change, which threatens the security and survival of its people and its land.

- (6) The commitment of Tuvalu to responding to the threat of climate change recognizes all relevant regional and international law relating to climate change mitigation and adaptation, as well as the common but differentiated responsibilities of all States, sectors, organizations and individuals and the need for international co-operation to address climate change and to protect those that are most affected.

The Sovereign Will of the People of Tuvalu

- (7) The intent for perpetual Statehood prescribed in Subsection 1 and the area of Tuvalu defined in Subsection 2 constitutes the sovereign will of the people of Tuvalu.

- (1) If as a result of constitutional change in or in relation to, or affecting, the United Kingdom any provision of, or any reference in, this Constitution ceases to be appropriate, the Head of State, acting in accordance with the advice of the Cabinet, may, by order, make such alterations to this Constitution as appear to be necessary or convenient to adapt it to the new constitutional arrangements.
- (2) An order under subsection (1) —
 - (a) shall be presented to Parliament by the Prime Minister; and

(b) unless previously confirmed, with or without modification, by an Act of Parliament, expires at the end of the second session of Parliament that commences after it is made.

(2) In this Part, a reference to the national interest includes a reference to the public interest in —

(4) Where this Part requires or permits the consent of a person under the age of 18 years, the consent may be given on his behalf by one of his parents or guardians.

DIVISION 2 - THE PRINCIPLES OF THE BILL OF RIGHTS

10 Freedom under law

(1) Freedom based on law consists of the least restriction on the activities of individuals consistent with the public welfare and the maintenance and development of Tuvalu and Tuvaluan society in accordance with this Constitution and, in particular, in accordance with the Principles set out in the Preamble.

(2) Everyone has the right to freedom based on law, and accordingly, subject to this Constitution —

(a) everyone has the legal right to do anything that —

(i) does not injure others or interfere with the rights and freedoms of others; and

(ii) is not prohibited by law; and

(b) no-one may be —

(i) legally obliged to do anything that is not required by law; or

(ii) prevented by law from doing anything that complies with the provisions of paragraph (a).

(3) This section is not intended to deny the existence, nature or effect of cultural, social, civic, family or religious obligations, or other obligations of a non-legal nature, or to prevent such obligations being given effect by law if, and so far as, it may be thought appropriate to do so.

11 The fundamental human rights and freedoms

(1) Every person in Tuvalu is entitled, whatever his race, place of origin, political opinions, colour, religious beliefs or lack of religious beliefs, disability, or sex, to the following fundamental rights and freedoms: —

(a) the right not to be deprived of life (see section 16); and

(b) personal liberty (see sections 17 and 18); and

(c) security for his person (see sections 18 and 19); and

- (d) the protection of the law (see section 22); and
- (e) freedom of belief (see section 23); and
- (f) freedom of expression (see section 24); and

- (h) protection for the privacy of his home and other property (see section 21); and
- (i) protection from unjust deprivation of property (see section 20), and to other rights and freedoms set out in this Part or otherwise by law.

(2) The rights and freedoms referred to in subsection (1) can, in Tuvaluan society, be exercised only —

- (a) with respect for the rights and freedoms of others and for the national interest; and
- (b) in acceptance of Tuvaluan values and culture, and with respect for them.

(3) The purpose of this Part is to protect those rights and freedoms, subject to limitations on them that are designed primarily to give effect to subsection (2).

12 Application of Part II

(1) Each provision of this Part applies, as far as may be —

- (a) between individuals as well as between governmental bodies and individuals; and
- (b) to and in relation to corporations and associations (other than governmental bodies) in the same way as it applies to and in relation to individuals, except where, or to the extent that, the context requires otherwise.

(2) Except in relation to any act that is done under a valid law which accords with traditional standards, values and practices, any act that is done under a valid law but that in the particular case —

- (a) is harsh or oppressive; or
- (b) is not reasonable in the circumstances; or
- (c) is otherwise not reasonably justifiable in a democratic society having a proper respect for human rights and dignity, is an unlawful act.

(3) The burden of showing that subsection (2) applies in respect of an act is on the party claiming that it does apply.

(4) Nothing in this section affects the operation of any other law under which an act may be held to be unlawful.

13 The Principles of the Preamble

The Principles set out in the Preamble are adopted as part of the basic law of Tuvalu, from which human rights and freedoms derive and on which they are based.

14 Parliamentary declarations of purpose

(1) When the purpose of an Act of Parliament is specifically declared in the Act, then in considering the possible effect on that Act of Division 3 (Protection of the Fundamental Rights and Freedoms) a court shall give due weight to that declaration as a statement of the considered opinion of Parliament.

(2) If an Act of Parliament specifically declares that a certain provision is required in the national interest, a court shall, subject to subsection (3), presume that the provision was reasonably required in the national interest.

(3) Subsection (2) does not apply if the High Court is satisfied that the provision could not reasonably be said to have been intended primarily to serve the national interest.

15 "Reasonably justifiable in a democratic society"

(1) Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in this Part, other than —

(a) section 33 (hostile disciplined forces); and

(b) section 36 (restrictions on certain rights and freedoms during public emergencies), all laws, and all acts done under a law, must be reasonably justifiable in a democratic society that has a proper respect for human rights and dignity.

(2) Any question whether a law is reasonably justifiable in a democratic society that has a proper respect for human rights and dignity is to be determined in the light of the circumstances existing at the time when the decision on the question is made.

(3) Subsection (2) does not affect any question whether an act done under a law was reasonably justifiable in a democratic society that has a proper respect for human rights and dignity.

(4) A law may be declared not to be reasonably justifiable in a democratic society that has a proper respect for human rights and dignity only by the High Court or some other court prescribed for the purpose by or under an Act of Parliament.

(5) In determining whether a law or act is reasonably justifiable in a democratic society that has a proper respect for human rights and dignity, a court may have regard to —

(a) traditional standards, values and practices, as well as previous laws and judicial decisions, of Tuvalu; and

(b) law, practices and judicial decisions of other countries that the court reasonably regards as democratic; and

(c) international conventions, declarations, recommendations and judicial decisions concerning human rights; and

(d) any other matters that the court thinks relevant.

(6) Notwithstanding subsection (5), any law, or any act done under a valid law, which accords with traditional standards, values and practices shall not contravene subsection (1) above, unless the relevant traditional standard, value or practice would be regarded by a resolution of Parliament supported by the votes of two-thirds of the total membership as one which should be eliminated.
